

Raising Courageous Kids
Serve Wars :: Part 7
Katie Martinez :: February 20 & 23, 2020

The dark side of leadership finds power in our parenting when the fear of _____ tricks us into being guarded, rather than open-hearted, with KIDS.

Rumbling with Vulnerability is a _____ taught and modeled by Jesus and the Apostle Paul.

Genesis Chapters 16-21

Abraham's first son was named _____, and his mother's name was _____.

Hagar's Story functions as an illustration of relational injustice and God's Saving Love.

The "Angel" Is the first sighting of the _____ in the Old Testament.

Genesis 16:13

Hagar is the first person in recorded history to come face to face with Christ and call the presence _____.

The Apostle Paul understood that the power and energy of God's Saving Love are not carried by _____; they are carried by the seemingly disqualified—like us.

2 Cor 4:7-11

"We" means _____.

This "treasure" is the _____.

The "clay jar" is your _____.

The "death of Jesus" are the _____ made by Jesus and his followers.

The "life of Jesus" is the power of _____ that arises out of self-giving Love.

"Always being given up to death for Life" implies a _____ of death and resurrection.

The Point: In order to raise Courageous KIDS, we must become authentic containers of _____.

The Power of Vulnerability

Wholehearted Leadership the key to Raising Courageous KIDS, but we have bought into the _____ instead!

Myth #1: Vulnerability is a weakness. Vulnerability actually is _____.

Myth #2: I can opt out of vulnerability.
To be alive is to be vulnerable. Vulnerability is _____.

Myth #3: Vulnerability is oversharing.
Oversharing often disconnects or connects superficially. Vulnerability is sharing with the intention to _____ . It is about trust, intimacy and connection.

Myth #4: I can go it alone.
We romanticize the idea that we can do even vulnerability alone. The point is to _____.

NEXT STEPS (What is God inviting you into today?)

1. I struggle with being guarded in my relationships, and I would like to talk with a Care Minister.
2. I want to learn more about raising courageous kids, and I will request more information about The Daring Way™ Workshop in March.
3. I have gifts of compassion, empathy and wholehearted listening. I am interested in helping others grow. I'll attend the Care Ministry Preview Lunch upstairs in the conference room this weekend or contact Pastor Perry Creede in the church office.
4. I will volunteer with children or students during the Kids are Worth it! ministry emphasis of 2020.
